In Memoriam

The Board of Directors of the Children's Aid Society, under a deep sense of an irreparable loss, must record the death of Mrs. William W. Frazier.

Mrs. Frazier was elected a member of the Board at the stated meeting January 17, 1894, and thus gave 21 years of continuous service to the Children's Aid Society.

In those days the confidence of the public had to be won to the Children's Aid idea by the slow process of demonstration, and much time and energy were required to convince our friends, even, of the practicability of our work, and to gain their support. To Mrs. Frazier's alert and sympathetic mind the family plan needed no justification. She saw in it the "old plan of Divine appointment" and unhesitatingly applied herself to the work of finding real homes for homeless children, and of gaining a wider recognition for the struggling Society.

Mrs. Frazier lived to see the wards of the Society increased from about four hundred to more than 2000 children, and to realize an expansion of the work beyond her fondest expectations. In 1897 she became first vice-president and filled that office until the time of her death.

She was with few exceptions never absent from the monthly meetings of the Board. She was usually present at the weekly meetings of the Advisory Committee and attended the one held on the last Thursday of her life. Here her practical suggestions often made possible the solution of many vexed problems.

Because of her interest in humanity and because of her generous support toward all charitable effort throughout the city, Mrs. Frazier was an earnest advocate of a greater co-operation among existing organizations, seeing clearly that in related and concerted action lies strength.

The interests of this Society were so dear to Mrs. Frazier that she led in every movement toward the extension of its work and the efficiency of its management. She gave largely of her means, of her influence, of her time, and of herself.

Many hundreds of children whose lives were sweetened by her charity may indeed rise up and call her blessed.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

The marked increase in the number of children in the care of the Children's Aid Society and in the necessary expenses is perhaps the most immediately important item in our thirty-third annual report. From 1907 to 1913 the Children's Aid Society received 3072 children, or an annual average of 439 for those years. In 1914 we received 755 children, or 316 over the average for the preceding seven years. There has naturally been an increase in our expenses, chiefly for board and clothing. While the total increase in the expenses for 1914 was 67 per cent. over the average for the past seven years, the increase in the number of children received in 1914 over the average number received for the past seven years was 74 per cent. The annual average expense for the seven years ending December 31, 1913, was $98,883.76. For the year 1914 the expenses for all departments of the Society was $165,226.67—an increase over the average for the preceding seven years of $66,342.91.

These 755 new children came from many different sources, such as county juvenile courts, poor boards, various hospitals, institutions, and societies, and a few from parents and relatives unable or unfit, for some reason, to care for them. To gather these children in, to arrange medical examinations in advance, to provide temporary care and suitable clothing, and to make assignments to the various boarding homes, require much time and attention to secure the best results. But this is only a small part of the work. We began the year with 1918 children. Including the 755 new ones, we dealt with 2673 different children during 1914. After subtracting all those passed from care by coming of age, by return to parents, by adoption, and in other ways, we had 2276 at the close of the year.*

* See complete statistical statement, p. 19 ff.

The extent and public value of the service of the Children's Aid Society as a general agent in placing children are shown when 2276 children in care. we note that these 2276 children remaining in care January 1, 1915, were received from 26 different district poor boards, 19 county juvenile courts, 10 societies, 7 hospitals, 18 institutions, and from 5 miscellaneous sources, covering six counties, and including parents, relatives, probation officers, police departments, and interested friends.

The large number of children needing care leads one to inquire as to the causes. It is hard to give a wholly satisfactory answer, but the condition of the parents throws some light on the question. The records for a period of five years may be of interest. During the years 1910, 1911, 1912, 1913, and 1914 the Children's Aid Society of Pennsylvania received for care a total of 2671 children. A classification of the condition of the parents shows the following result:

	No.	PER CENT.
Children whose fathers were deserted by the mother	80	3
Children who are full orphans, both parents being dead	101	4
Children of separated parents	208	8
Children whose mothers were deserted by fathers	251	9
Children of widows	269	10
Children of unknown parentage (includes abandoned children, waifs, and strays)	269	10
Children of unmarried parents	324	12
Children of widowers	370	14
Children having both parents living and married without separation or desertion (includes cruelty cases, and parents sent to hospitals for the insane, to prison, to tuberculosis hospitals, and other cases of physical, mental, or moral unfitness of one or both parents)	799	30
	<hr/> 2671	<hr/> 100

Certain general conclusions can be drawn as to causes from the above statements, which include children of various races, Some general conclusions. creeds, and ages received from many different sources. The full orphans number only a few more than the children deserted by their mothers, and the children of widowers outnumber those of widows. We note the relatively large number of children made homeless because their parents deliberately separated, neither one having deserted the other, and a still larger number of children whose fathers had deserted their mothers. The serious evil of child abandonment is shown in that 10 per cent. of the children were of unknown parentage, while a somewhat larger number were those of unmarried parents, which means that most of the infants were homeless from birth. Finally we face the fact that almost one-third of the children had married parents living together—at least there was no voluntary separation or desertion. This includes a wide variety of physical, mental, or moral conditions that made the home an undesirable and in many cases an impossible place for a child. In view of these conditions, we urge the importance of all the preventive efforts in the community that will help to remove the causes of child dependence and neglect.

Why some mothers failed to keep their children. The records from which the above figures were taken show that, in the case of the children of widows, some of these mothers were physically or mentally incapacitated for house-keeping and the care of children; others were found to be immoral or addicted to bad habits. The same conditions were found to prevail among the mothers of some of the children of separated parents, and also in the case of a number of the children whose mothers had been deserted by the father. There were other instances in which the mothers were found by a court to have neglected or cruelly treated their children. Many of the mothers of the illegitimate children had abandoned or given them up before we had a chance to prevent such action, while others were quite young or morally irresponsible or incapacitated physically or mentally, so that it was advisable to relieve them of the care of their children.

Efforts to prevent the separation of children from parents. As in previous years, we again urge that as far as possible every effort should be made to prevent and to render unnecessary the separation of children, merely because of poverty, from a good mother. Whenever practicable, such a mother should be helped to keep her children. If a child, with due regard to its welfare, can be left in the care of its own mother, the Society seeks through various channels to make that possible. Conditions other than the poverty of the parents, as the above tables show, indicate why, in spite of efforts to prevent it, large numbers of children have to be received for care.

Questions are sometimes asked as to the motives of those who take the large number of children that we place out in families. In our experience the motives are as varied as the ages and the conditions of the children to be placed out. Many of these represent homes without children, or where a child has died, and in other families a foster child was taken by the parents after their own children had grown up. Other applications are from families having only one child of their own for whom they wished a companion and playmate. The increasing number of good families willing to receive a homeless child to be raised as their own is a most valuable asset to the Society in its work.

In the past seven years 173 of our children have been legally adopted after having been in our care an average of three and one-half years. The average age of the children at the time of their legal adoption by the families was seven years. This confirms the almost universal experience that foster parents usually desire legal adoption only in the case of the younger children.

Each year hundreds of our children receive the benefits of family life without legal adoption. This relates particularly to children physically and mentally normal over whom the Society has full jurisdiction, such as orphans, deserted children, and foundling babies. Such children can often be placed in private families without payment of board, to be raised as members of the family, with or without legal adoption, according to circumstances. Such children are first placed on trial with families whose homes have been carefully investigated and inspected. The Society does not consent to the legal adoption of a child until after it has lived at least one year in the home of the adopting parents. This plan makes it possible for the Society to know that the home is not only a good one in itself, but that it is adapted to the particular child, and that the child is satisfactory to the family and happy with them. When they are old enough, they receive compensation for their services under the oversight of our visitors.

The Children's Aid Society boards out children in order to secure the undoubted advantages of family life and individual care for children when free homes are not available, and when their condition does not call for commitment to institutions. This plan gives to the community a child-caring agency, with ability to expand to meet increasing needs if the necessary resources be provided. The Society can thus provide for the care and training of many different kinds of children. Some need temporary care and are later returned to their parents or relatives. Others are found to be in a physical or mental condition that requires special care and treatment before they can be offered for free homes. To safeguard the boarding-out work, the Society gives careful attention to the selection of the right kind of families. School and church facilities are provided, as well as medical and general physical care. Under the oversight of our visitors the caretakers train the children in habits of obedience, cleanliness, industry, thrift, and play.

Whether a child is boarded or put in a free home or placed in a family where he receives wages, the Society insists on the importance of wholesome home life and good influences. The moral and religious training of the child as well as his mental and physical development are carefully considered. The children are placed with those of the same general religious faith as their parents. In this way the children are brought up under the influence of the religious faith to which they naturally belong. Reports are secured at stated intervals about school and church attendance from teachers and ministers.

During 1914 we have continued our special work, which we began in 1912, of placing young infants with certified wet-nurses. This work was undertaken at the request of physicians and social workers to meet the needs of babies abandoned by their mothers in the streets and elsewhere, and others whose mothers had died or were sent to a public institution on account of physical or mental defects. We cared for 56 such infants in 1912 and 1913. We had 16 in care January 1, 1914, and during the past year 21 more were received, making a total of 37 during 1914. The average age of the 21 babies when received was about ten weeks. They remained with our wet-nurses an average of about seven months, and made an average gain of about six pounds each. At the close of 1914 there remained 11 of the 37 in care during the year. Five of the babies did not improve and died during the year. One of these was very weak and died three days after being received. The death of another was caused by whooping-cough, while three others died of gastro-enteritis during the summer while in the hospital for treatment. This is a death-rate of about 13 per cent. of the whole number of infants in care during the year. While an exact comparison is difficult, it may be of interest to note that 12 per cent. of the infants born alive in Philadelphia in 1914 died before the close of the year. When one considers the skilled care and watchful effort in the average home to give the baby every chance to live, it is evident that the results with these neglected and abandoned babies are very encouraging. The Children's Aid Society is doing this work under the guidance of experienced physicians, in an effort to reduce the mortality among neglected babies. We are also under obligations to the municipal nurses and to the Visiting Nurse Society for their co-operation and help.

Our special work for older boys has grown so that 204 boys have been in the care of that department during the year. At the close of the year we had 127 living in Philadelphia; 81 working on wages, 25 living in free homes, and 21 in boarding homes. There were 41 outside of the city, of whom 28 were working on wages, 1 was in a free home, and 12 were in boarding homes. Thirty-six boys were discharged from care during the year. Of these 204 older boys with whom we dealt last year, 93 were sent by juvenile courts, 31 by the Pennsylvania Society to Protect Children from Cruelty, 19 by the Department of Health and Charities of Philadelphia, and the others came from scattering sources. One hundred and fifty-nine were white and 45 were colored. The average age of these boys was about fifteen and one-half years. The majority were between fourteen and eighteen years of age. About 30 different kinds of employment were represented in the positions held by these boys. We could find only 14 employers willing to have the boys living at home with them. One hundred and twenty other boys had to board or live in homes found for them apart from their places of employment. This illustrates the breaking down of the old apprenticeship system, which was so common in Philadelphia in the early days. Arrangements were made for 70 other boys in various situations to live at home with their relatives.

Among the special events during the year may be noted the development of boys' clubs by our agents, special vacations for the boys at the Seashore Camp, Atlantic City, a Washington Birthday party, a special Christmas dinner for the colored boys, and a Christmas dinner given by one of our directors for 48 boys at his farm. This director also gave a special Christmas present to each of the boys. The plans for the future in this department include the further development of boys' club work, the provision of books and magazines for the boys in the temporary homes, arranging for the leisure time of the boys by having them join recreation centers near their boarding homes, and especially to improve the facilities to secure suitable employment for these boys. In addition, through the generosity of one of the men of our Board, the necessary equipment has been provided to enable a number of these boys to join the Boy Scout troops.

In the Girls' Department there were 117 older girls in care during the year. Most of them came from the Juvenile Court, the Society to Protect Children from Cruelty, and the Department of Health and Charities. The majority were between fourteen and nineteen years of age, the average being about sixteen and one-half years. Twenty-one were discharged during the year, 11 were transferred to country homes, leaving 97 in the care of this department on January 1, 1915. The kinds of employment in which these girls are engaged include telephone operating, clerical work, dressmaking, nursing, and factory work. The girls living in private families receive, in addition to board and room, wages of from $1.50 to $5.00 per week, the average being about $2.40 per week. In other employments, where the girls must pay their own board, the wages are from $3.00 to $8.00 per week, the average being about $5.25. Naturally some of these girls have to have help with clothing and in other ways, especially if they happen to lose their places. They are just at the age when they are greatly in need of supervision by older persons who are in a position to help and to advise and to befriend them. While most of these girls were over the legal school age, 26 of them attended school regularly. A circulating library for the use of these girls is being provided, and plans have been made to assist them in finding wholesome means of recreation.

The Children's Aid Society believes that in Philadelphia the investigation, immediate medical care, and study of the child individually before deciding what kind of permanent care is needed, can be done better and more economically by a central agency than by each society or institution working independently. The Society has, therefore, continued its relations to the Children's Bureau, which is an unincorporated co-operative agency.* During the past year the Children's Bureau, on behalf of the affiliated societies, received 3301 applications from many different sources in Philadelphia County, such as societies, institutions, churches, hospitals, courts, city and county departments, and individuals, involving a total of about 4923 children. In doing this work agents of the Bureau made 7607 visits on behalf of children.

The Receiving Shelter, which is also conducted and supported for the use of the affiliated children's agencies, provides temporarily for children. In addition to the beds in the Shelter building, a considerable number of private boarding homes in the city and suburbs are Children's Bureau.

Receiving Shelter.†

* The Children's Bureau was established in February, 1907, by action of the Children's Aid Society of Pennsylvania and the Seybert Institution for Poor Boys and Girls as a joint receiving and investigating department in Philadelphia for the two organizations. In May, 1908, the Pennsylvania Society to Protect Children from Cruelty joined with the Children's Aid Society and the Seybert Institution in the conduct and work of the Bureau. Since November, 1909, the Receiving Shelter at 419 South Fifteenth Street (entrance, 1420 Waverly Street) has been conducted and maintained as a part of the Children's Bureau. Since then the following Philadelphia institutions have become active members of the Children's Bureau, in the order named: Philadelphia Society for Organizing Charity, House of the Holy Child, Howard Institution, Shelter for Colored Orphans, Northern Home for Friendless Children, House of St. Michael and All Angels, Bethesda Children's Christian Home, Lincoln Institution, Burd School, Sheltering Arms, Home Missionary Society, Church Home for Children, Home and Hospital of Good Shepherd, Home for Destitute Colored Children.

† Following the principle that each organization should devote itself to the special work for which it is best equipped, we are glad to announce that negotiations have been completed to have the Seybert Institution assume the active management of the Joint Receiving Shelter, which will be conducted for the benefit of the societies affiliated with the Children's Bureau.

utilized. In these, children are kept for a few days or weeks, according to circumstances, while receiving medical attention or pending transfer to country homes and institutions. Some idea of the scope of this work may be obtained from the following figures:

A total of 5221 examinations were made by the doctor; antitoxin was administered in 251 instances; there were 422 vaccinations; the tuberculin test was used in 34 cases; 454 children were sent to hospitals; 424 were sent to dispensaries; 155 were given treatment by the oculist; 493 required dental treatment; 105 were given a special examination to determine their mental condition. There were also 5575 treatments of children for minor conditions in the Shelter itself.

In addition to the children accepted by the Children's Aid Society from Philadelphia and placed in families in the country, either free or at board, there were 579 children placed in various institutions through the agency of the Children's Bureau.

The growing work of the Society has increased the responsibilities of Personal service the Board of Directors and added to the work of of volunteers. the various committees.

During the year there were 49 meetings of the Thursday Morning Committee on Cases. The Auditing Committee met 12 times during the year, on the Mondays prior to the Board meetings, which were held on the second Tuesday of each month in the year. The Committee on Supervision and Management met during the year as occasion required. In addition, members of the Committee have for each month audited the visitors' and office appropriation. The Committee on Women with Children have held monthly meetings except during the summer, and also joint conferences with some other agencies. This Committee has also been active in coöperating with a similar Committee of the Babies' Welfare Association. The representatives of the Society on the Children's Bureau Executive Committee have attended meetings and kept in close and active touch with the joint undertakings in which the Society is concerned. Other standing and special committees met during the year as occasion required. We are under great obligation to the officers and members of the Clothing Committee for their zeal and fidelity. Their report shows that the Committee has had larger responsibilities this year because of the increase in the number of children.

The present wide-spread activities of the Society are made possible to a large extent by the generosity of our contributors and friends. Without their annual contributions and occasional legacies and bequests, the work for the many hundreds of children now in our care could not continue. The experience of the Society for thirty-three years shows the great need for this work, and we again express our profound thanks to all those whose gifts of time and money have helped to build up this organization.

Partial support on a per capita basis is received for some classes of children, such as those removed from almshouses or taken from county juvenile courts. However, this does not cover the entire cost of board and clothing, even for these children. In addition, there is the cost of finding permanent homes for them, making the necessary inspections, placing the children, and watching over them thereafter until they are legally adopted or become of age.

The treasurer's report shows that considerably less than one-sixth of our total expenses for 1914 were met by State aid. The State aid is given toward the "maintenance and prosecution of the work" of the Society. The deficit of the Society is much greater than the available State appropriation. The whole amount received last year from State aid, county commissioners, poor boards, and from parents and relatives for the support of children did not equal the expenditures for the two items of board and clothing. To complete the amount needed in addition to income from all other sources, the private contributions and the State aid are both used for the maintenance and prosecution of the work of the Society. The deficit in 1914 of over $19,000.00 shows the urgent need of a larger income for current expenses.

Most of the invested funds of the Society were given to us in trust, with permission to use the income only for current expenses. The income received from trust funds and investments is comparatively small, in 1914 being only about one-fifteenth of the total expenses.

Under present conditions the Society needs a liberal increase in the fixed endowment, and also legacies and bequests that the Board can use to meet deficiencies and unusual or special expenses due to the exigencies of our work. We are glad to acknowledge in our treasurer's report the receipt, during 1914, of legacies from the estates of Mary M. Morrison, Anna Lovering Wharton, Anna Blanchard, and Susan Israel.

Last year we called attention to the overcrowding and the general unsuitability of the Charities Building where the Children's Aid Society has office quarters with a number of other charitable agencies. It is a decided advantage to those concerned to have adjacent offices. A number of other similar organizations would like to have space in the Charities Building. Philadelphia ought to have an endowed, large, well-adapted building to house at least all the more important, general charitable, and social service agencies. While this is perhaps not a good year to expect such a gift, we wish to call the attention of public-spirited citizens to this great need and to the opportunity it presents.

APPENDIX A.

CHAIRMAN'S REPORT OF THE CLOTHING COMMITTEE FOR THE YEAR ENDING DECEMBER 31, 1914.

The Clothing Committee of the Children's Aid Society held its annual meeting on January 8, 1915. The date of this meeting has been changed to precede more closely that of the Board of Directors.

The Committee work varies little from year to year, the purpose being to provide all clothing for the children in the Society's care, to take charge of the rooms in which this clothing is stored and distributed, and to undertake the Christmas work for the children of the Society.

Each year the Committee finds it more advantageous and economical to buy clothing ready-made. Less clothing is now, therefore, cut out by the Committee. The total expenditure for clothing during the year ending December 31, 1914, was $22,430.10.

The 1290 garments cut out by the Committee in the past year were made up as usual free of expense by seven different Dorcas Societies, to whom we are most grateful.

Thirty-eight branches of the Needlework Guild and various other sewing societies have also been most generous in their donation of 3980 garments.

Because of our ever-increasing number of children to care for, we hope most earnestly that this help from these societies will continue. It is much needed and appreciated.

As always, our Christmas appeal to children was generously responded to, and we were thus able to send our usual Christmas presents to the children of the Society.

Presents were mailed to 930 children, the expense this year amounting to $270.96. The Christmas Committee deserves great credit for the way this work was done.

Various individual donations amounting to $125 were given this year to our Committee to be expended for special Christmas parties. This was used as follows: A Christmas dinner for a group of mothers and babies; a special Christmas dinner for some older colored boys; a party for colored girls; and a Christmas party given in our Board room for 35 white girls. Some members of the Committee personally took charge of this last party and it was a great success. In addition, a number of independent Christmas presents were given to various individual children.

As before, we pay $25.00 a month toward the now regular salary of the second woman employed in our rooms, and her assistance is a great help.

Submitted for the Committee,

ANNA JOHNSON SCULL,
Chairman.

APPENDIX B

REPORT ON WORK OF COUNTY ORGANIZATIONS

The statistical report on page 22f. shows the widely scattered sources in the eastern and central part of the State from which the Children's Aid Society of Pennsylvania has received children. The main office of the Society acts as agent in this territory for Juvenile Court authorities, Directors of the Poor, Associated Charities, Children's Homes, Humane Societies, and other organizations.

In finding good family homes for children and meeting preferences as to age, sex, color, and religion, it is frequently desirable, and sometimes necessary, to transfer them from one county to another. To facilitate this, the main office of the Society performs a special service by receiving children from one county and placing them in another. The families with whom these county children are placed are found and inspected by the main office of the Society, and its visitors continue to visit and supervise the children in their new homes. There remains much work that should be done by the Children's Aid Society in the various counties. So far as the resources can be secured, it is the aim of the management of the Society to extend its co-operative work to cover all of the territory in eastern and central Pennsylvania.

The Children's Aid Society of Western Pennsylvania, having headquarters in Pittsburgh, includes 23 counties in the western part of the State. In addition, there are a number of societies having their own headquarters, but affiliated or co-operating with the Pittsburgh or Philadelphia offices.

A brief account is given below of some of the local work and various activities of the county organizations.

From BERKS COUNTY the State Society received and had under care at the close of the year 23 children, of whom 2 came from the Juvenile Court, and 21 from the County Poor Board. The Children's Aid Society co-operates with the Reading Associated Charities, the Directors of the Poor, the Juvenile Court authorities, Visiting Nurse Society, and other agencies, in an effort to provide better care for dependent and neglected children. Miss Caroline de F. Penniman, Secretary, Reading Associated Charities, 526 Court Street, receives applications and communications for the Children's Aid Society and co-operates with the main office.

In BLAIR COUNTY the Children's Aid Society co-operates with the Juvenile Court authorities in the care of neglected children. Miss Mary G. Davis, Probation Officer, Altoona Trust Building, Altoona, acts as corresponding agent. Children are received and cared for by the State Society after commitment from the county Juvenile Court.

In BRADFORD COUNTY the State Society has been in consultation with representatives of civic organizations, the Juvenile Court, and Directors of the Poor, and plans are under consideration to extend the work of the Society in this county. The State Society has found a number of good homes in the county and placed children in them under supervision of the main office.

The BUCKS COUNTY Children's Aid Society reports 58 children cared for during the year 1914, of whom 54 remained under supervision at the close of the year. Of this number 23 were boarding in private families, 27 were in free homes, 2 were in the hospital, 1 was in an institution, and 1 was with parents under supervision. All these came from the Bucks County Poor Board. These children are placed out and visited in private families in Bucks County by members and friends of the Society, which acts as agent for the Directors of the Poor. For the maintenance of the children and the prosecution of the work the treasurer of the County Society disbursed $2144.16. For the support of the work the Society received from the Directors of the Poor $2.00 per week for each child for board and clothing. The State Society has also received children from the County Juvenile Court through Mrs. Julia V. Nightingale, probation officer of Doylestown. The officers of the County Society, all of Doylestown, are: President, Mrs. Henry T. Darlington; secretary, Miss Jane Watson; legal adviser, Mr. Hugh B. Eastburn; treasurer, Mrs. Richard Watson.

The CHESTER COUNTY Children's Aid Society reported in October at the annual meeting of the Directors of the Poor and Charities a total of 168 county wards in care. Of this number, 50 were in boarding homes and 118 in free homes. The Society reports 15 additional names on record in what is known as the supplementary department. In addition, from the Chester County Juvenile Court the Society received 8 children by commitment. It is interesting to note that the active membership of this Society now numbers 256, indicating a very commendable interest in Chester County in this work. The Chester County Society has secured the help of a large number of persons who give volunteer service in the care and supervision of children. The Society reports that the Directors of the Poor of Chester County co-operated with them in every way for the betterment of children. The State Society also receives children from the Juvenile Court through Miss Caroline Harry, probation officer of West Chester.

The County Society has recently lost two excellent friends and workers. On October 2, 1914, occurred the death of Mrs. Abbie Walton Wilder, assistant secretary of the Chester County Society. Mrs. Wilder was very active in educational, civic, and religious work in her community, and her loss will be felt by many. In the lamented death on December 31, 1914, of John L. Smith, one of the Directors of the Poor of Chester County, the Society and all those interested in philanthropic work in Chester County have lost an active and useful worker.

The officers of the Chester County Society are as follows: Mrs. I. Roberts Comfort, West Chester, Pa., president; Mrs. Sarah M. Cooper, Avondale, Pa., vice-president; Mrs. Lydia B. Walton, Kennett Square, Pa., secretary; Mrs. William M. Marshall, Kennett Square, Pa., treasurer.

The COLUMBIA COUNTY Committee of the Children's Aid Society was re-organized in February last year when a meeting was held in Bloomsburg. After an address by Mr. Edwin D. Solenberger, general secretary of the State Society, the officers were elected as follows: President, Prof. L. P. Sterner, Bloomsburg; first vice-president, Mrs. May Crispin, Berwick; second vice-president, Mrs. Sara Wirt, Bloomsburg; secretary, Mrs. Helen M. Holloway, Berwick; executive committee, Hon. W. T. Creasy, Catawissa Township; Mrs. J. W. Bruner; H. S. Barton; Mrs. J. H. Dennis; Prof. George Styer, all of Bloomsburg, Pa.; Dr. Martha Freas, Prof. Harlan R. Snyder, Dr. Joseph Cohen, Berwick, and Mrs. H. Mont Smith, treasurer, Bloomsburg. The State Society has children in care from Columbia County, and has placed children in the county. Through the County Agent, the Society co-operates with the Juvenile Court authorities and with the Directors of the Poor, and with private citizens, in the care of homeless and neglected children.

The DAUPHIN COUNTY Children's Aid Society reports 258 children under care during the year 1914. Of this number, 7 were boarding with private families in the country, 75 were in free homes, 3 were in private families receiving wages, 78 were in various institutions, 2 were in hospitals for treatment, 70 were with parents and relatives under supervision, 3 addresses unknown, and 20 were being temporarily boarded while awaiting placement. The Dauphin County Society acts as placing-out agent for the County Juvenile Court, local Poor Board, Associated Charities, Visiting Nurse Association, and various Homes, and co-operates with the main office of the State Society.

The report of the Dauphin County Directors of the Poor for 1914 speaks of "the effective work of the Children's Aid Society of the county, which took charge of children whose parents or guardians were totally unfit to rear them. This work, the most vital to be done by any agency dealing with the 'improvement of the poor' problem under present-day economic conditions, has resulted in the bettering of environment for more than 70 additional children of unfit parentage. A number of these children have been adopted outright by citizens of this district, while the others are either cared for by individuals who are paid by the county, or maintained, educated, and instructed in institutions through the county's aid."

The president of the Society is Mrs. George W. Kunkel; first vice-president, Mrs. Francis J. Hall; second vice-president, Mrs. Morris Jacobson; secretary, Mrs. Homer Black; treasurer, Mr. Francis J. Brady; general secretary, Mrs. Elsie V. Middleton, 5 N. Market Square, Harrisburg, Pa.

The DELAWARE COUNTY Children's Aid Society reports 46 children cared for during 1914, of whom 34 remained in care at the close of the year. Of these, 17 were boarding in private families and 17 were in families without payment of board. These children were under the supervision of the various local branches of the County Society. Of the 34 children in care at the close of the year 9 were received from the Poor Boards, 10 from Juvenile Court, 8 from the State Society for supervision, and 7 from miscellaneous sources, such as families and friends. The treasurer's report shows an expenditure during the period to January 1, 1915, of $1020.53, of which $852.43 was for board of children. The funds of the Society are received from the Delaware County Directors of the Poor and County Commissioners, and by dues and donations. The Media Day Nursery is conducted by the County Society in conjunction with two other organizations. The State Society also has children in care from the Delaware County Juvenile Court and co-operates with Miss Emma R. Brewer, 307 Crosby Street, Chester, Pa., who is chief probation officer. The officers of the Society are: President, Elizabeth S. Pennell, Wawa; vice-president, Elizabeth P. Willetts, Concordville; treasurer, Elizabeth Hall, Media; secretary, Margaret G. Sellers, Swarthmore.

The FRANKLIN COUNTY Children's Aid Society, having headquarters in Chambersburg, reports 45 children in care at the end of 1914. Of this number, 31 were in free homes receiving wages under the supervision of the Society; 11 were in the Receiving Home at Chambersburg awaiting disposition, and the others were cared for elsewhere. These children were received by the Society from the Poor Board, Juvenile Court, and direct from parents. Mr. John G. Orr, president of the Society, writes: "In July, 1914, the Children's Aid Society of Franklin County entered on its thirty-first year of work for friendless, homeless, and indigent children. It carries among its assets the varied experience of these years and what it has helped to do for the 250 children that have been in the care of the Society. While the work has naturally been confined chiefly to Franklin County, members of the Society have often crossed its borders, extending help to their neighbors wherever there was practical work to do. In looking backward it is a pleasure to have in our vision some of those the Society has helped to a better life and to a position of self-support. The Society three years ago established a Home for the Aged in Chambersburg, which has now as inmates four aged women who are facing the sunset of life with greater cheer than they have had in the past. Besides meeting all our expenditures, we are steadily increasing our endowment fund, now amounting to about $11,000, the income of which is to be used to widen and enlarge the work."

The Society has the active co-operation of the Directors of the Poor and of Hon. W. Rush Gillan, who presides over the Franklin County Juvenile Court. We are glad to announce that during the past year Judge Gillan has appointed Miss Elsie V. Klepfer as probation officer for Franklin County. She has headquarters in the Court House at Chambersburg. The work of Miss Klepfer, as probation officer, will be especially valuable in looking after neglected children and those of wayward or delinquent tendencies. Both the Franklin County Society and the State Society are co-operating with Judge Gillan and with the probation officer in the work of the Juvenile Court. The officers of the Society are: President, Mr. John G. Orr; vice-president, Dr. George F. Platt; recording secretary, Rev. W. C. Cremer, D.D.; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. Belle Bonbrake; treasurer, Mr. W. H. Speer.

In LACKAWANNA COUNTY the work for children is being somewhat reorganized. Mrs. W. B. Duggan, 334 N. Washington Avenue, Scranton, as probation officer, has arranged through the county Juvenile Court for the commitment of some children to the State Society. The Associated Charities and Humane Society of Lackawanna County, 332 N. Washington Avenue, Scranton, with Mr. Maurice Willows, as general secretary, is seeking to bring about a closer working relation between the Poor Board, the Juvenile Court, and various children's institutions, for the care of dependent, neglected, and delinquent children. In this the State Society is ready to help in any way that it can.

In LANCASTER COUNTY the work of the Children's Aid Society is under the supervision of the main office in co-operation with the County Committee. At the close of the year the Society had 41 children under care received from the Directors of the Poor of Lancaster County, 10 received from the Juvenile Court, and 11 received from other sources. In receiving and caring for children in Lancaster County the Society co-operates with the Humane Society, the Charity Society, Poor Board, Juvenile Court, General Hospital, Children's Home, and other agencies. The County Committee has established an office in the Lancaster Charity Society Building, 206 E. King Street, where meetings are held on Friday morning with Miss Robinson, county agent, to consider applications and special cases. The County Committee also holds regular meetings on the first Wednesday of each month. The increasing volunteer services rendered by the Lancaster County Committee are very greatly appreciated. The free use of automobiles, a contribution of $5.00 from the Christian Endeavor Society of St. Paul's Reformed Church, Christmas gifts sent to 26 children by Mrs. John Rengier, of Lancaster, contributions of clothing from the Lancaster branch of the Needlework Guild, and individual and liberal discounts from Watt and Shand, of Lancaster, and other favors from private individuals, are worthy of special mention.

The Lancaster Committee provides office rent, trolley fares throughout the county, toll-gate fees, first outfits for all new Lancaster children, and shoes for all children in boarding homes. The local Committee and the State Society, in furnishing the services of the County Agent, ask for the co-operation of all who are interested in improving the condition of homeless and neglected children in Lancaster County. The officers of the Society, all residents of Lancaster, are: Chairman, Mr. Charles G. Baker; vice-chairman, Mr. Bernard J. Myers; recording secretary, Mrs. J. A. Maxwell; treasurer, Mrs. John A. Nauman; county agent, Miss Cora A. Robinson. The other members of the Committee are Mrs. T. Roberts Appel, T. B. Appel, M. D., W. S. Doeblcr, Esq., J. C. Fiero, Miss Jessie Forbes, Charles F. Hager, William R. Harnish, Mrs. A. B. Hassler, Mrs. William A. Heitshu, George P. King, M. D., Mrs. Charles I. Landis, Mrs. Charles B. Long, Albert McConomy, Rev. J. W. Meminger, D.D., Mrs. S. R. Moss, Rev. Isadore Rosenthal, J. Hale Steinman.

In LEBANON COUNTY the Children's Aid Society co-operates with the Associated Charities, having offices in City Hall, Lebanon, Pa. The officers of the Associated Charities, all of Lebanon, are: President, C. H. Killinger, Esq.; vice-president, Edwin U. Sowers; secretary, F. W. Robbins; treasurer, John F. Loehle; general secretary, Miss Eloise Stewart. The main office of the Children's Aid Society has under care at the present time 13 children from the Lebanon County Directors of the Poor, 3 from the Lebanon County Juvenile Court, and 2 from other sources. The Children's Aid Society is working in this county with the Directors of the Poor, the Juvenile Court, the Associated Charities, Visiting Nurse Society, and other agencies in the reception and care of children.

The LEHIGH COUNTY Committee is working with the Associated Charities in Allentown. Mrs. Mary L. Romig, for many years secretary of the Children's Aid Society in that county, is chairman of this Committee. The other members, all of Allentown, are: Mrs. P. F. McDermott, Miss Louise Leisenring, Mr. D. A. Miller, and Mr. Max Hess.

At the close of the year the State Society had in its care a total of 89 Lehigh County children received from the Poor Board and Juvenile Court. Agents of the State Society make inspections and visit all homes where these children are placed. The State Society is in active co-operation with Mr. William H. Kuhns, steward of the County Home, Wescosville, Miss Lucy J. Collins, Associated Charities, Allentown, and Mr. Thomas B. Kellow, Probation Officer, Commonwealth Building, Allentown.

The LYCOMING COUNTY Children's Aid Society reports 53 children cared for during the year ending December 31, 1914. Of these, 9 remained in the Receiving Home at Williamsport at the close of the year. The Society did a valuable and important work in giving temporary care during the year to a number of children who were later returned to their parents. Others were placed in boarding homes or sent to the State Society for permanent placement. The Lycoming County Society received children during the year from the Overseers of the Poor, Juvenile Court, and from parents and relatives. The State Society now has placed out in family homes under its care 46 Lycoming County Children. The Board of the County Society conducts a Receiving Home at Williamsport, and in connection with its work expended about $2000. To secure the necessary income, the Society asks for the support and co-operation of every one in Williamsport and vicinity who is interested in the welfare of unfortunate children. The officers of the County Society, all residents of Williamsport, are: President, Mr. Harry A. Miller; vice-president, Mrs. Clinton B. Coleman; secretary, Mrs. Walter E. Zahn; treasurer, Mr. William S. Millener. The officers, together with Rev. Elliott C. Armstrong, Rev. Wilson I. Miller, Mrs. Henry Myers, Mrs. Robert Hawley, Mrs. Mabel Payne Newman, Mrs. William P. Beeber, and Miss Helen Cochran, constitute the Board of Directors of the County Society.

In MIFFLIN COUNTY the main office has been in correspondence during the year with county officials, local Poor officers, and others, in an effort to assist some dependent children in the county. In this county, the State Society will do what it can to assist the local authorities in the care of children, as the county does not itself have the necessary facilities at the present time.

From MONROE COUNTY the Children's Aid Society has received children through the Poor Board and also works in co-operation with Miss L. Grace Kane, 21 N. Ninth Street, Stroudsburg, Probation Officer, who looks after children within the county whose condition brings them within the scope of the Juvenile Court law. The State Society has found some good homes for children within the county, and has received children for care from the almshouse authorities.

The MONTGOMERY COUNTY Children's Aid Society reports 35 children in their care at the close of the year, of whom 34 were boarding in private families. All these children were received from the Montgomery County Directors of the Poor, who use this Society to assist them in finding homes for the children and visiting and supervision of them after they are placed. The members of the Society report a total of 120 visits to these children during the year. The Montgomery County Society owns and occupies as headquarters No. 17 West Airy Street, Norristown, where a Day Nursery is conducted in addition to the other work done by the Society. The State Society has also received a number of children from the County Juvenile Court of which Mrs. Lucy B. Parham of Norristown is probation officer. The officers of the Society, all residents of Norristown, are: President, Mrs. George W. Rogers, 529 Swede Street; vice-presidents, Mrs. H. M. Bunting and Mrs. Joseph Fornance; corresponding secretary, Miss Emma Camm, 821 DeKalb Street; recording secretary, Miss Mary L. Cresson; treasurer, Mrs. Joseph K. Weaver, 816 DeKalb Street.

In MONTGOMERY COUNTY there is a local Children's Aid Society Committee in Danville, of which Mrs. W. K. McClure is the secretary. The State Society has received children from the Directors of the Poor and the Juvenile Court of Montgomery County. There is apparently an increasing need for the work of the local Committee. In co-operation with representatives of the main office they have been able to look after a number of neglected children.

In NORTHAMPTON COUNTY the work of the Society is largely done through the probation officers of the Juvenile Court and the secretaries of the Easton Charity Organization Society, the Associated Charities of the Bethlehems, and the Children's Home. At the close of the year the State Society has under its care 43 children from Northampton County, of whom 36 were received from the Juvenile Court, 1 from the Associated Charities, and 6 from other sources. The County branch of the Society reports 12 children in care at the close of the year, and the total expenditure for board for the year $882.00 and for clothing, $100.82. The income for these expenditures is derived by per capita payments from the Directors of the Poor of Northampton County. Miss Elizabeth A. Dinan, 521 Locust Street, South Bethlehem, is acting president and treasurer, and Mrs. William R. Chambers, Delaware Avenue, South Bethlehem, is secretary.

From NORTHUMBERLAND COUNTY the State Society has received children from the local Poor Board, the Juvenile Court, and from parents. Plans are under consideration to extend this work in the county. A number of citizens are interested. Mrs. Emma C. Dougal, 221 N. Front Street, Milton, Pa., has given valuable service as a volunteer worker on behalf of neglected children in this community.

From the SCHUYLKILL COUNTY the Children's Aid Society has under care at the present time 16 children. Of these, 8 were received from the Poor Board and 8 came from the Children's Home in Pottsville, conducted by the Benevolent Association. In this County the Children's Aid Society co-operates with the Directors of the Poor, Mr. B. S. Simonds, chief probation officer of the Juvenile Court, the Pottsville Benevolent Association, and other agencies.

SULLIVAN COUNTY does not have a Juvenile Court, but during the past year the Columbia County representative of the State Society looked after some neglected children in this county. An effort is being made to develop local interest through the school authorities, the Directors of the Poor, and the county officials.

In YORK COUNTY the Society to Protect Children, Center Square, York, is active, with Mr. Herbert B. Kain as general secretary. This organization does valuable work in that community. The State Society has found a number of good homes in this county for children and co-operates with the York Society.
